

Isabella Sanchez is currently in her third year as a student at Southern Utah University, majoring in painting, drawing, and printmaking. After completing her bachelor's degree, she plans to continue on to obtain an MFA and become a university professor in fine arts while simultaneously continuing to create work that she is passionate about. She is eager to begin sharing said artwork with a broader community through the Route 7 Review. She aims to explore emotional themes regarding relationships and their various evolutions. She strives to acknowledge the different changes, sorrows, and heartache that accompanies human connection.
