

Kaitlyn Corley is currently studying as an undergrad at SUU, working towards a BFA in photography. She finds herself working with mainly sentimental themes through the use of analog and digital photography. She hopes that her imagery can bring together the local community through shared feelings and or experiences.