

Sydney Vivian is an illustration student at Southern Utah University approaching my third year. Art has always been such an important part of her life and it's how she experiences the world. One of her favorite pastimes is to go on a hike or even just walk down the street and do a painting. Paintings capture more than just a moment, they capture the feeling of that moment, and it's the emotions we remember most from our experiences. She strives to help others feel those little moments of beauty that inspire her.
